

32nd Annual APPI Conference
‘Teaching Effectively, Teaching Affectively’
Aveiro, Portugal – 27th-29th April 2018

Flash Fiction Competition.

We are looking for micro-stories of no more than 100 words (and not less than 50). These stories will contain a strong element of plot development. To fit in neatly with the 32nd APPI Conference, these micro-stories will loosely deal with the idea of ‘Effective Affectiveness’ or ‘Affective Effectiveness’ - you choose! The stories will be written in English though they may contain up to 10 words in Portuguese.

The winner will receive a cash prize of 50 Euros, to be presented at the APPI Conference. Two runners up will each receive a cash prize of 25 Euros.

The winners will be announced during the APPI Conference (more details to follow).

The winners will be asked to read their contributions aloud, or to nominate someone else to read.

The competition is open to all conference delegates and all APPI members.

Submissions should be made by midnight, Friday the 13th of April (lucky for some!)

Note:

- The word count does not include the title
 - The title of the story is at the discretion of the author
 - Submissions should be sent to appi@appi.pt in a Word document (or compatible)
 - The judges’ decision will be final
