It works in Practice!

Welcome to the 10th APPI Madeira Seminar, welcome to the Escola Básica dos 2º e 3º Ciclos Bartolomeu Perestrelo, in Funchal.

During two full days participants will have an opportunity to improve their professional development, update their knowledge and ways of doing in classroom, exchange views on teaching practice with participants at large and speakers, and get acquainted with the latest resources in the field.

As usual the APPI Seminar is in debt to its sponsors, namely the Direcção Regional de Educação, the Sindicato Democrático dos Professores da Madeira, the Academia de Línguas da Madeira, ENDU – Energias Educativas, among others in our thank you list. APPI is also in debt to the board of the Escola Básica dos 2º e 3º Ciclos Bartolomeu Perestrelo and the team of qualified speakers who have answered APPI's call for the present Seminar.

The APPI Executive Committee wishes both participants and speakers a high-quality meeting in the ever-beautiful, welcoming Funchal and Madeira.

The Englishes of London

World Englishes is one of the course requirements in the Portuguese national syllabus, and there is probably nowhere in the world where a greater variety of Englishes can be heard by a visitor than in London. This talk will demonstrate some of the varieties of Englishes that can be found in the British capital and briefly look at some of the influences that this is having on contemporary British English,

Giving students a meaningful purpose to speak English

This talk provides teachers with ideas on how to aid their students in developing their speaking skills. Students shall be motivated to bring their "world" into the English class and to take English back into their "world". The activities suggested can generate additional ideas consonant with each teacher's classroom experience and teaching situation.

Making your [power] Point!

According to statistics people's number one fear is public speaking. All students need to learn how to give effective presentations – with or without powerpoint. Student presentations are also an ideal opportunity for evaluation of spoken language.

Motivating students to read

Reading is an essential part of school. Students who read freely are successful students. But how can teachers motivate their students to read? Through the use of simplified readers, this session will look at practical ways to create a reading environment in your classroom and in your school, helping your students to improve their English at all levels.

Making assessment practical and easy for students to grasp Assessing students, in my opinion, is one of the most difficult areas of a teacher's job. It must be comprehensive, thorough and practical, so that we aren't drowned in more paperwork. In this session we will look at how, using the Common European

Framework of Reference for Languages.

learning, teaching, assessment, this is made

easy and practical, for both teachers and students. We can promote selfassessment, creating language learning awareness that will help students and teachers identify strong and weak points in the language learning process.

Roads to Success!

Everything about you is a result of your doing or not doing! Your Income, Debt,

Relationships, Health, Fitness level,

Attitudes and Behaviors. If you're frustrated with any area in your life, then

it's time to take a little inventory!

First, congratulate yourself on your successes; and then take a look at what isn't working out so well. What are you doing or not doing to create those experiences?

Learn how to use your creative side and program yourself for positive results.
