SEMINAR

30th September -1st October 2016

Back to School.
'Are you ready?'

Escola Sec/3 Arquiteto Oliveira Ferreira
Arcozelo, Portugal

Back to school. Are You Ready?

Welcome to the APPI Arcozelo Seminar, welcome to Escola Secundária/3 Arquiteto Oliveira Ferreira for the first professional development meeting of teachers of English in 2016-2017.

This seminar has been accredited by the CCPFC – 0,5 credit unit to be granted to participants.

Questioning and interpreting the Seminar key-topic - ‘Back to school. Are You Ready?’ – are but a sound way to start a new school year and get ready to meet new challenges. To this effect, our speakers have been kindly invited to develop this topic as they see suitable, particularly by sharing their perspectives on how to broaden your professional knowledge, develop your teaching skills, share 21st-century teaching tips and techniques and try out innovative approaches to common teaching and classroom issues. APPI hopes delegates make the most of motivating, dynamic, inspiring sessions – plenaries, talks and workshops – in a friendly atmosphere, and that the whole Seminar can meet their expectations.

This Seminar, like any other bigger or smaller professional development event planned by APPI, has been organized with hard work and great gusto, and aimed at making a difference in delegates’ classroom work and their students’ performance.

The Arcozelo Seminar has been made possible thanks to the motivated, generous support of the Executive Board of the host school – Escola Secundária/3 Arquiteto Oliveira Ferreira – APPI is in debt to. A warm Thank-You also goes to our local member and teacher Amélia Lamego who has liaised with her school Board and APPI for making it happen.

APPI is also most thankful to the team of qualified, dedicated speakers who have answered APPI’s call for the Seminário. Thanks very much to all those involved both in the preparation and running of the event for their significant help and goodwill granted.

The APPI Executive Committee wishes delegates and speakers a high-quality, fruitful meeting.

Beating boredom in the classroom: strategies to engage pupils

“Young people are bored out of their skulls with real life”. Are such attitudes evident in our classes? If so, can our classrooms counter such boredom? Yes! But understanding and engaging the thoughts, feelings and behavior of pupils involves constant effort, a willingness to take risks and creativity. I’ll present a variety of activities and strategies to engage learners based on principles of language learning psychology that many teachers will identify with.

“Turn the tortilla over” in the classroom

EFL teachers are constantly facing situations where students bring new and unfamiliar to others contents in the classroom, which may impede both natural communication and the process of instruction. Instead of an obstacle, such a situation could be used to improve students' communicative skills. This workshop will look at some real life and student-centred activities based on some Trinity ISE tasks.

'If you can't beat them, join them!'

It's no use moaning over students' reluctance to comply with our idealized-and mostly out-dated - constructed image of what they should endorse, embody or pursue. Turning our backs to their world and experience, their - unfathomable- tech savvy expertise, their ever-changing, ever-flowing grasp of the world is wasting the potential they bring into the classroom. Remaining attached to our solipsistic bubble where we feel secure with our educational certainties seems to us no longer productive. “If you can’t beat them, join them”, that’s our personal motto, a challenge that we invite you to embrace.

Are text books too prescriptive? We all depend on them to guide us through the demands of the syllabus, but have we become too dependent on turning to page 78 rather than thinking what we might do otherwise to achieve the same objective. In this talk I shall explore some alternatives to being tied always to 'the book'.
